Catalina Torres became very famous woman in Brazil for her survival story. Catalina was a zoo cleaner in a safari park taking care of tiger's cages. She was 37 years old at that time. She was in charge of cleaning and feeding big cats like tiger and chaeta. In Brazil, a very famous celebration is going on every year. It is called "Rio carnival". It happens every February, and is celebrated all over Brazil. The main event features with this celebration is the music and dancers with lovely and colorful costumes.

In 2007, during the Rio Carnival celebration, Catalina was on her night shift caring for the tigers. Unfortunately, the loud music from the celebration frightened the zoo animals, leading to one of the tigers attacking Catalina. Her son, Leao, saw the accident and screamed for help. She suffered severe injuries to her face and was immediately transported to the hospital. According to her colleague, Leonardo Brooks, Catalina accidentally left the cage door open, allowing zoo guards to get in on time.
