In a quiet Omani town, on Saturday, Nasser and Saif met at a café. They enjoyed drinking sweet tea under the shade of a large tree. Suddenly, a speeding white car came racing down the café. The young driver lost control of the car, and it went directly towards the café. People shouted as the car crashed into a small red one that was parked in front of the café, creating a loud noise. It was a terrifying moment that left everyone shaken.

Fortunately, no one was seriously injured, but both cars were damaged. Nasser and Saif rushed to help the young driver out of his damaged car. They calmed him and offered first aid, checking for any injuries. They showed kindness and compassion, knowing that the driver was a young doctor named Hamad. They called the police, who arrived with an ambulance that took him to the nearest hospital. Later, Hamad's family thanked Naser and Saif for saving their son's life. The accident served as a reminder of how quickly things can change and the importance of being there for one another in times of need.
